It is intimated that a ukase will appear in a few days fixing elections under universal suffrage begining in December.

The Retch, a Constitutional Democratic newspaper, says that this promise of a new Duma is perfectly useless to stay the mad course of national events. Nothing can now stop an explosion of primitive forces. The work of pacific reform has been suspended. The country will be compelled to offer countless sacrifices before final victory. Responsibility for the future lies with the bureaucracy and the court camarilla.

CAPITAL STRONGLY GUARDED. Troops Allow No Street Gatherings-Army Doesn't Like Its Role.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUR. ST. PETERSBURG, July 23.—The closing of the Duma has excited bitter indignation and ominous resentment in all classes. Every opinion uttered is to the effect that the real revolution has come at last. The sole responsibility for the frightful bloodshed which is regarded as certain is cast on the Czar and the Government.

All the troops in this city have been placed at the disposal of the Prefect of Police; who is adopting the most stringent measures. Numerous expulsions have already taken place and no gathering of any kind is tolerated.

The city continues quiet. The reports of stoning and property wrecking by roughs are not confirmed. It was reported to-night that there was trouble in the suburbs, and it was alleged that there was fighting near the Narva Gate. If trouble comes here it will probably begin with outbreaks by buighs, who are convinced that the troops have been ordered not to use their weapons. There is some anxiety regarding Moscow, The Government is also expecting trouble at

The Jewish inhabitants are on the eve of new and cruel massacres. July 28 will be the anniversary of Russia's conversion to Christianity. He warned the Jews that if the life of even one more Cossack was attempted the streets were likely to run knee deep in blood. The deputation remarked with alarm that an official inquiry had shown the Jews were not implicated in the murder of Cossacks. To this Gen. Kaulbars is alleged to have answered: "That does not matter. You Jews are the real authors of all the terrorists' acts, because you instigate them.'

Later Gen. Kaulbars promised to defend the Jews on condition that they immediately organize a patriotic procession to show their loyalty. Nothing more has been heard of this thus far.

MANIIA, July 28.—A battle was fought yesterday in the island of Leyte, one of the Visayan group, with a large band of Pula-janes, in which two Americans and twelve men of the Philippine Constabulary were killed. The Pulajanes are fanatics, and have been very troublesome in the island of Samar. Their depredations have hitherto been almost wholly confined to that isla Six hundred of the Pulajanes attacked detachment of the constabulary under command of Lieut, Williams, The constabu lary were outnumbered and were defeated Lieut. Worswick, a scout of the name o MoBride and twelve privates were killed Fourteen rifles, two revolvers and a quan tity of ammunition were captured by the fanatics. The bodies of the American

Gen. Lee has ordered a company of the Twenty-fourth Infantry to reenforce the constabulary and has sent two battalions of infantry in pursuit of the outlaws. According to thoroughly trustworthy ources there are between 600 and 1,000 Pulajanes in the field. Gen. Allen of the constabulary sailed for Leyte yesterday ostensibly on an inspection tour. Lieut. Worswick was a graduate of the University of Kansas, and was appointed to the constabulary this year. This was his first fight.

Paris Shopkeeper Loses Forearm and Others Hurt by Infernal Machine. Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. PARIS, July 28 .- An explosion occurred this morning on the premises on Rue Bondy occupied by a man of the name of Haegeli, a mender of antique porcelains. Haegeli was opening a parcel in the course of busi ness when he came across an envelope containing a key, with a note indicating that the key would unlock a box which was in the parcel. Haegeli placed the key in the lock of the box and turned it, whereupon there was a tremendous explosion which shook the whole neighborhood. Haegeli's forearm was blown off and his face shattered. Others were wounded, including a woman who was at work at a sewing machine in a neighboring window.

The box had been filled with powder, nails and bolts, in the centre of which was a revolver, which was connected with the look with devillah ingenuity. This was discharged by the turning of the key.

The motive of the outrage is unfathomable. It is surmised that the box was sent by a lunatic or an unknown personal hater by a lunatio or an unknown personal hater of Hacgeli, for somebody during the night drew a revolver and dagger on a ground glass pane of the workshop. This pane was the only one that was not broken by the

This is a sequel of a demonstration which the divinity students, led by their mollahs, made week before last, when they forcibly released a professor who had been arrested for sedicious language. After that the heads of the clergy held a meeting in the chief mosque and demanded the immediate execution of the reforms which the Shah promised last January is the administration of justice and which he had made no attempt to carry out. Pending the fulfilment of the Shah's promise they withdrew in a body to a point six miles equide of the dity.

SENATOR ALLISON M UCH BETTER His Iliness Exaggerated to Suit Purposes of Iowa Politic

DES MOINES, July 28 .- The tensity of the Iowa political situation is illustrated by the manner in which the condition of Senator Allison is being featured. He has been pictured as in a precarious condition and the effect of his early death upon the political fortunes of various Iowans has been dwelt upon until the Senator's friends have demanded an official state-In response to this demand the following telegram was received to-day from L. J. McNealy of Dubuque, Senator Allison's

McNealy of Dubuque, Senator Allison's private secretary:
"Dubuque, July 28.—Newspaper reports concerning Senator Allison's physical condition not only exaggerated but entirely incorrect. The Senator has absolutely no kidney trouble, and is steadily improving.

"L. J. McNEELY."

Everybody knows that Senator Allison is a tireless worker and the close of Congress found him worm out, but since his return to his home inDubuque he has been recuperating rapidly.
